Johnston County Job Seekers Have a New Place To Connect With Employers

Clayton, NC, February 19, 2016—The Capital Area Workforce Development is celebrating the opening of their newest NCWorks Career Center in Clayton on Friday, March 11th from 9:00 am – 11:00 am. The event features a ribbon-cutting and facility tour with staff. “This is an important center. Johnston county is growing so we want to help people find and keep good paying jobs. If retraining is needed, we have scholarships available. People with good jobs spend money and buy homes and these are the things that grow our local economy,” said Pat Sturdivant, Executive Director.

Staff can help businesses recruit or host hiring events at the center to attract job candidates. Job seeker services include help with resumes, mock interviewing, workshops, skill assessments and many more.
